

What Our City Clients Think About LCPtracker...

Robert Merritt

City and County of Denver Auditor's Office:

"The City and County of Denver is nearing completion of a $250 million justice center. For this project alone, we currently have over 7400 payrolls submitted with LCPtracker. If this project was done with paper payrolls I believe it would have taken one full time person to audit payrolls and file the paper coming in for this project. We saved hiring that additional person, saved space, and the yearly cost to archive the payrolls once the project was completed. The city has logged more than 50,000 certified payrolls electronically over the last three years; LCPtracker saved our city many administrative hours!"

Marvin D. Taylor

City of Minneapolis:

"I wanted to offer a heartfelt thank you for not only for a good turnout and presentation today, but the entire process. This has been a long process of almost two years to get from a concept to the go live date today. I know that at times it has been a strain to get it or keep it moving. Thanks to BIS, B2GNow & LCPtracker for your professional approach to getting this done. Thanks to staff for whatever roles you have played along the way and for not saying that someone else should do it or worry about it."

Malisa Torres

Public Building Commission of Chicago:

"In using LCPtracker, Chicago PBC is able to run their own labor compliance program without the use of a consultant. Our program is extremely efficient and well-run, with contractors and subcontractors electronically submitting their reports in a timely fashion. We have saved an enormous amount of money and are extremely pleased with the accurate and real-time reporting. In addition to these benefits, the relationships between the contractors and PBC staff are less contentious because there are no discrepancies about the data within the certified payrolls."

Travis
City of Oakland Labor Compliance:

"I wanted to thank you for the quick response to my questions yesterday. I'm still not fully aware of all the advantages the LCP program offers, but I'm learning more and more about it each day. In fact, the Utilization Summary Report will definitely help our staff in the tracking of our projects. Thanks again for all your help on walking me through the LCP program."

Risa Pincus
Chicago Housing Authority:

"LCPtracker has enabled our team to take the time to really perform all of the steps that go into compliance monitoring. We have more time for site visits, less time calculating restitution, and the ability to handle an extremely large workload in manageable loads. With the help of LCPtracker, we have been able to receive zero finding Davis-Bacon audits two years in a row! Additionally, Kris and Christina are amazing to work with and we know that no matter what, we can rely on our LCPtracker team to help us with our many requests and issues."

Johnnie Burns
City of Minneapolis:

"LCPtracker has been a key partner in our efforts to redefine how we conduct full contract compliance at the City of Minneapolis."

Dasco Munoz
City of Oakland:

"The City of Oakland has used LCPtracker for four years. I am impressed with how much more efficient our data collection has become, with less, actual man-power. This is a huge cost-savings! By gathering all the payroll data electronically, we are able to monitor Prevailing Wage requirements, Oakland residency and apprentice goals and accurately report on any of these."

Jack Gibala
Department of General Services Montgomery County:

"Despite being somewhat computer challenged, I found navigating in the LCPtracker database very easy."
